

PRESS RELEASE No. 12/2017

cargo-partner Expands LCL Network between China and Germany

With a new direct connection between Ningbo and Nettetal, increasingly popular solutions via Koper for the South Germany region as well as numerous LCL export services, cargo-partner offers a solid portfolio of sea freight consols between China and Germany.

The international transport and info-logistics company cargo-partner builds on over 30 years of experience in ocean freight and is continuously expanding its comprehensive portfolio of worldwide LCL services. Since May 2017, the logistics provider offers direct consolidation solutions from Ningbo via the cargo-partner distribution hub in Nettetal, North Rhine-Westphalia, on the border to the Netherlands. With transit times of approx. 31 days from Ningbo to Nettetal, this connection is a convenient alternative to imports via the port of Shanghai. cargo-partner organizes pre- and on-carriage from all of Mainland China and Taiwan as well as delivery to anywhere in Germany. On request, the info-logistics provider also handles all import and export customs formalities.

Beside Nettetal, cargo-partner operates LCL connections via Hamburg, Koper and Bremerhaven. This way, the entire region can be covered efficiently. In particular, the connections via Koper are increasingly used for transports to the South Germany region since they provide a temporal advantage of 5-7 days compared to transport via the northern ports. cargo-partner offers LCL connections via Koper to Germany from a number of ports, including Shenzhen, Shanghai, Hong Kong, Ningbo and Xiamen.

cargo-partner also provides a comprehensive choice of LCL export solutions, such as connections from Hamburg to Hong Kong or Shanghai. Direct consolidation without transshipment allows for significantly faster customs processing and minimizes handling risks. Thanks to long-standing partnerships with shipping lines and regular carrier assessments, cargo-partner can access a wide variety of sea cargo connections and ensure high handling quality.
